INTERESTING MEETINGS.

Stake Authorities Sustained and Subjects Spoken Upon-Remarks of Speakers Unusually Earnest.

Saturday Afternoon Session. The choir and congregation sang: Guide us. O thou great Jehovah, Saints unto the promised land! Prayer by Elder William W. Riter. Singing by the choir:

We're not ashamed to own our Lord, And worship Him on earth.

Elder Rudger Clawson of the Council of the Apostles addressed the congregation on the duties of the Latter-day Saints, giving practical instructions on the course which they should pursue, He showed that there was no time to waste in useless pleasures or in reading that which gave no instruction. He referred to trashy literature and while he admitted that some of the high standard novels which inculcated virtue and honor and integrity might do no harm, the sensational and corrupt stories that were read with avidity were very harmful and a waste of precious time. He showed that God is no respector of persons, also that there was no place in the Church for strife or for vaulting ambition nor for idleness. He touched on the subject of tithing and read from the financial reports to show that there was still many non-tithe payers, numbering among them members of the various quorums fo the Priesthood. He argued all these should be exemplary men and the promise of the Lord would be found true in their case as well as others, but unless they obeyed this law this land should not be a Zion unto them. There had been great improvement in the observance of this law, and he believed that in another year it would be found that the number of non-tithe payers would be considerably less than at present. Apos-tle Heber J. Grant followed, bearing testimony to the truth of the teachings which had been given, and giving practical illustrations of the benefits of obedience to the laws of God and paricularly referring to the subject of ithe paying and the blessings resulting compliance with this law of the God could put ideas into the minds of men by which they could c'tain means necessary for their welfare and to much more than compensate them for that which they expended in the building up of His kingdom. He dwelt at some length on this subject in a very impressive and interesting The choir sang:

Elder William W. Riter addressed the congregation, saying that a few plain words, spoken under the inspiration of the spirit of the Lord have a better effect upon the people than many words spoken with the gifts and graces of oratory without that spirit. He cited the cases of President Wilford Woodruff and Heber C. Kimball in support of this proposition. The speaker believed that the people are individually as well as collectively directed by Providence and that men are often inspired when they are not aware of it. Personally he believed Napoleon Bonaparte to be one of the most contempti-ble characters of history; yet the speaker believed Napoleon to have been an instrument in the hands of God to break down barriers and to scourge the iespotisms of Europe and open the way or the introduction of the Gospel. Eller Riter gave many striking illustrations of the special providences of the Almighty, and discoursed mainly on the ities and privileges of the Latter-day

Apostle Heber J. Grant read the Sunday school song written by Mrs. Emily Woodmansee, 'Providence is Over All." in illustration of the theme of the pre-vious speaker; also the hymn, "Come, Come, Ye Saints, commenting upon the 4th stanza, which he said was the imax and which he regretted had been off out of the Psalmody. He read the rophecy of Joseph Smith, stating that Saints would yet be driven to the Rocky mountains, where they would become a mighty people. This is the place which God for us prepared. In adversity the community grows; in wealth and ease, nations go to pieces. Education and wealth have destroyed men. Nothing else is so danger-a Latter-day Saint as a large wealth; and next to that is the danger of egotism from orldly learning, without the spirit the Lord. Cannon then introduced Dr. Dewey of the University of Chicago, who is professor of philosophy and pedagogy, and who is here to teach in the summer school of the B. Y. academy. He said he was especially interested in the educational work in Utah. He had had many young men of the "Mormon" Church in his classes in the East, and could testify to their general good scholarship and gentle-manly conduct. He affirmed that the Utah State University and normal training school were in as good a condition as those of any other state. He ex pressed briefly his pleasure at the interest taken in Utah in the cause of educa-

Elder C. W. Penrose delivered a discourse on the leading principles of the Latter-day Saints faith. He explained for the benefit of strangers present that in sustaining the large number of officers in this Stake of Zion by the votes of the congregation it was not meant that they should be "sustained" financially. This Church does not pay for preaching nor for administering its or-dinances. The Elders travel without purse and scrip and receive no salaries for their services. The speaker then explained that while these officers were specially called of God to occupy their respective positions the members were all call d to be Saints of the Most High. The name of "Mor-mons" had been given them in derision as the term "Christian" was first used at Antioch. But thte Saints need not be ashamed of it, as it was the name of a very good man, a prophet of God, who once lived on this continent. This is the last dispensation, dispensation of the fullness of times," ushered in by the Lord through the Prophet Joseph Smith. It was not the intention of this Church to fight any creed or religion. The "Mormon" people are not against the believers in the reeds of the world as individuals. But truth always disagrees with error and they have a great mission to perform on which the truth must be proclaimed. That work is to labor for the salvation of all mankind, both those who are living and those who are dead, all races and those who have gone into the spirit world. The work that is entrusted to the Latter-day Saints is to labor for the redemption of all the race, until every knee shall bow and every tongue confess that Jesus is the Christ, This is not a new religion, it is the old reli-gion restored. Not by the learning and research of men, but by the revelation of God through His Prophet Joseph Smith. The Saints do not worship Josoph Smith as some people suppose. They believe in the words that he uttered, not because they were his words but because they were the word of the Lord. The truths that are contained in the Bible harmonize with those that God has revealed in this age and dis-

The Latter-day Saints have been called to be positively righteous not merely negatively good. They are called to bear witness of the truth, and to labor for the salvation of mankind. The Saints are to refrain from all things that God says are evil. They are not to poral prosperity. The speaker spoke of that God says are evil. They are not to the influence which departed parents live by bread alone, but "by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God." Jesus said that those who enter lustrated the truth of the doctrine by relating incidents in the life of himself commandments.

It is true that the Scriptures de-clare "the blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth from all sin," but that is predicated on the condition "if we are in the light as He is in the light." To believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Redeemer of the world is not sufficient. Prayer was offered by Elder Henry Richards, after which the choir sans to hymn, "Oh, My Father."

It is necessary that we keep His commandments. That is how we exhibit our faith in and love for God, for Christ said, "If you love me ye will been my command the control of the charm of the control of the charm of the control of the charm of the keep my commandments."
There were certain things that Christ said were absolutely necessary before entering into the Kingdom of God. The speaker then quoted the words of the Savior to Nicodemus: "Except a man be born of water and of the spirit he STAKE AUTHORITIES.

Joseph E. Taylor and inflexible law of initiation into the Peprose, counselors, kingdom of God, and received the Holy Ghost after coming up out of the water. He also chose twelve Apostles and Seventy Elders whom he sent ou to preach the Gospel without purse scrip. They were to preach the Gospe to every creature and they who be-lieved and were baptized would be saved, while those who believed not would be damned and certain signs would follow them that believed. Elder Penrose quoted amply from the Bible, parsages relating to baptism and the reception of the Holy Grost by the laying on of hands; which ordinances vere followed by the gifts promised to believers by the Savior.

For ages, he said, the world has been filled with confusion and contention in relation to religious doctrine. The authority that was given to the Apostles two thousand years ago does not commission any man to preach and administer the Gospel now. The speaker went on to point out the necessity of having divine authority in order to ef-fectually administer in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost. He told how the servants of God in former days received that authority, testified to its restoration in these latter days.

Elder Penrose reiterated and dwelt upon the rule laid down by the Savior. "Except a man be born of water and of the spirit be accounted." of the spirit he cannot enter into the kingdom of God," and showed that those who obey this law and receive the Holy Ghost, are called to be Saints of the most High God, They must love Him with all their might, mind and strength, and their neighbors as themselves. These are the first principles of the Gospel that is to be preached in all the nations of the earth, and ultimately to every creature whether in the body or in the spirit world, until the work of Christ and His servants is accomplished in the salvation of the sons and daughters of God. The choir sang the anthem, "God of Israel Hear Our Prayers." The confer-ence was adjourned for three months. The benediction was pronounced by Patriarch John Smith.
